first Paper Topic

One of the key arguments that Ronald Asch makes in his book Nobilities in Transtion 1500-1700 is that “the change in noble attitudes and behavior was profound.” In what way, did they change? What various historical factors and trends does Asch point to in order to explain this change?

Your paper should be 5-6 pages long, double-spaced, and in 12-pt. font. It should be well-organized, with a well thought-out introduction, thesis, and presentation. Your paper should include specific references to the text; here, you should use footnoted citations in the Chicago style. (See the Library webpage if you are not familiar with the Chicago style). All papers should be emailed to me by the beginning of class on Thursday, March 30, 2006.
